Perky Perio

For the dental health care professional who's still slightly interested in periodontal disease and looking for exciting new material and sure ways to present, treat and maintain it.

It's hard to believe that periodontal infections can create so much trouble in the body. Come find out the hows and the whys. The physiology of infections isn't that complex. The hygienist with an eye towards health is invited to this exciting program of science.

LEARNING OBJECTIVES

- New and better disease detection
- Manage the infection using blood markers
- Find ways to communicate with your patients
- Treatment options you've just read about

The Saving of Enamel

Anyone frustrated with motivating patients to brush better to decrease decay, needs to be in this audience. Re mineralization therapy is the latest and greatest dental hygiene procedure since the middle 1980's. With today's technology, dental hygienists become the key players in enamel re-growth. This course goes beyond better brushing, beyond sealants, beyond anything you've done before!

Using sealants as a treatment and not as a barrier. Sealants for toothbrush abrasion, eliminating root sensitivity, as a temporary filling material, and arresting early decay, in addition to preventing decay. Avoiding sugar is attainable without depending on patient compliance. The floss nag is dead.

LEARNING OUTCOMES

- How to use xylitol as an adjunct to minimally invasive dentistry
- New way to use regular toothpaste
- Arrest decay, now!
- Good plaque?
- Revolutionary re mineralization protocol to use on Monday morning
- The wildfire change in dentistry
- The remarkable benefits of confections
- Ten Soda Drinkin' Rules
